

New Answers for Diabetes: Become A Certified Diabetes Motivational Coach!

Presented by C. Devin Hastings

Diabetes is an escalating epidemic and, with the right training, you can help those in need. In fact, you have at least 62 million potential clients waiting for you to learn how to help them.

21 million people already have diabetes and 41 million more are pre-diabetic. This means that without appropriate help, those 41 million will most likely develop diabetes. You can help them avoid that fate!

The painful truth for most people with diabetes is that they, and their friends and family, suffer from far more than just the effects of the disease itself. All doctors can do is prescribe medication and send them home. Meanwhile the patient feels more out of control and helpless than before because they lack the emotional motivation and knowledge of how to constructively deal with their situation. Their feelings can actually worsen their condition!

You, as a trained hypnotist, are a highly effective motivational coach and stress management consultant. After taking this workshop, you are able to safely and effectively help those with diabetes or those who are at risk of getting diabetes.

Why Take This Workshop?

In America, diabetes is the leading cause of blindness among adults aged 20–74 years. And, according to the most recent statistics, 82,000 people a year have a part of their body amputated because of diabetes.

It is truly disturbing and, if you are a parent, it is frightening to think that your 15-year-old diagnosed with diabetes today might lose a toe or a foot by the time he or she is 30, because the disease causes poor blood flow to the feet.

"That's the next thing we're going to see. We're going to have 30-year-olds needing amputations," said Dr. Robert Cuddihy, chief of endocrinology at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Why do many diabetics go blind and/or need an amputation? Because, in most cases, diabetes complications are the result of poorly controlled blood sugar and that is often the result of a continuous series of small choices that lead to big, bad consequences.

As a highly trained motivational coach and stress management expert, you can help your client to make the correct small choices that make a big difference.

In 1992, C. Devin Hastings was going blind from diabetes. Also, he was told that he would be using insulin within 2 years of his diagnosis.

14 years later Devin still has 20/20 vision and is not using insulin.

Devin Hastings has had his unique and powerful approach to diabetes published in leading national journals. He has also been a featured speaker for AT&T, the Better Business Bureau, Lockheed-Martin and many other companies. As a certified NLP and Hypnotism instructor, Devin's teaching is very effective and interesting.

Devin was awarded the prestigious Hypnotism Research Award in 2001 for his groundbreaking work in the area of diabetes.

In 2003 Devin was given the NGH Ormond McGill award for "Outstanding Faculty Member." This incredible honor is earned through evaluations from the previous year's participants at the NGH convention.
